

Injury Prevention: How does it SAVE Money?

5 INNOVATIVE TIPS

An injury prevention specialist plays a crucial role in helping companies the reduce costs of workplace injuries.

At ErgoWorks, our therapists are trained in ergonomics and injury prevention. Our strategies and expertise helps our clients keep their employees productive.

As your trusted guide in building a culture of health and safety at work, here are ErgoWorks' Top 5 innovative ways that injury prevention saves companies money.

#1: IDENTIFY RISK

Injury prevention specialists conduct thorough assessments of the workplace to identify potential risks and hazards that could lead to accidents and injuries. By proactively addressing these issues, they help reduce physical demands that could lead to an injury.

#2: SUPPORT SAFETY

ErgoWorks therapists engage and support safety programs and initiatives to mitigate risks. This includes creating safety protocols, policies, and procedures that employees must follow to ensure a safe work environment.

#3: EMPLOYEE TRAINING

Injury prevention specialists encourage employees to follow company policies. They educate employees about safe work practices, proper equipment use, and hazard recognition. Well-trained employees are less likely to make mistakes that could lead to injuries.

#4: ERGONOMICS

They can assess workplace ergonomics to ensure that employees' workstations and tools are designed within standards. Ergonomically designed workspaces can reduce the risk of musculoskeletal injuries, which improves employee health and productivity.

#5: DATA ANALYSIS

ErgoWorks can collect and analyze data related to workplace incidents and injuries. This data helps companies identify trends and areas where improvements are needed, which can lead to targeted ergonomic and risk interventions.
